Formerly the location for Liu Gui Tourist Center, this place is located at the side of the 18 Arhats Mountain Conservation Zone. Hardly hit by Typhoon Morakot on August 8 2009, the swift running river passed through the Lao Nong River and caused damage to the whole tourist center. In the past, this area is the refill and resting area for tourists heading for Tengjhih Forest Recreation Zone, Shan Ping Ecological Science Park and travelling along the Southern National Highway. For providing the passer-by tourists a nice environment for resting, Maolin National Scenic Area Administration built public toilets, shops, and outdoors coffee shop for the tourists, and provides tourist information and guide as well. This place is managed by private business at the appointment of the administration. Tourists can stop by, get rest, have a cup of coffee, and enjoy the scenic view of the mountains and the falling water (in high tide season) before they go to another destination.
